STATEMENT OF PROBABLE CAUSE

At just before 1:00 pm on July 26th, 2019, the Fridley police responded to a call of an attempted abduction on Taylor Street NE in Fridley, Anoka County. Officers initially learned a red passenger car was driving on the 7300 block of Taylor Street NE and was making multiple passes on the street. At the same time, 2 young girls were riding their bikes on the same street. A male who lives nearby then observed the red car come to a stop near the girls. The witness then observed the male driver of the red car open the driver's door. The witness knew this was odd and he began to walk towards the street location. The witness saw the male driver then reach out from the car and grab one of the girls (7 year-old victim) by the arm. The witness then yelled at the driver. The driver then immediately drove away from the scene – with his driver's door still open. The incident was captured by neighborhood surveillance cameras.

The child victim was interviewed and describes riding her bike in her neighborhood with her friend. The victim said a "crazy guy" stopped in his red car where they were riding. The victim said the guy wanted her to touch his "peanut", indicating his genitals. The child said the guy wanted her to come closer to him but she didn't want to. The child said that is when the guy grabbed her by the arm. The child said the guy then reached out to her and grabbed her arm and pulled her towards himself as he was seated in the car. The victim said the guy put her hand on his "peanut". The child described the male as being in the car by himself. The victim said the guy was "tan", had black hair and was wearing sunglasses. The victim said the incident ended when she heard a man she knows from the neighborhood coming towards the car. The victim said the guy then drove off with his door still open. The victim said the incident made her "feel really bad" and that she wanted to "punch" the man. The victim described being scared and thought the man would have a knife.

The victim's friend, a 6 year-old girl, described riding bikes with her friend in the neighborhood. She said a "boy" was driving around and came by them a couple of times. The friend saw the car stop and the man inside grab the victim by the hand. The friend saw the victim's hand on the man's genital area, which she identified as his "private". The friend said the man had black hair, was wearing sunglasses and was in a red car. The friend said the man left so fast that his door was still open.

The male witness took the girls home and to safety.

Detectives used video to identify the car as a red Acura RSX, having a sun roof and a unique, off-center license plate placement. A press release seeking public assistance in further identifying the car was issued and resulted in a tip. On July 31st, 2019, detectives learned a red Acura RSX with an off-center license plate belonged to a male who lives on Hanson Boulevard in Coon Rapids, Anoka County. The male is identified as Aaron Daniel Johnson (DOB: 10/22/90), the defendant herein. The defendant worked at a nearby business. There, detectives observed a red Acura RSX with the unique off-center license plate which matches the video. At the scene, the defendant was found inside the car attempting to remove adhesive from the windows. The car was also seen on the video having what appeared to be "window flares" which are attached with adhesive. Co-workers stated they asked the defendant why he was removing his "window flares" given his prior statements that he liked them.

The defendant was arrested and acknowledged he is the only person who drives or has access to his car – the red Acura. The defendant initially told detectives he was not near Fridley on July 26th. When confronted with the specific details of the car the defendant then admitted he was driving in Fridley and his car overheated. The defendant said he was trying to let it cool down when he made contact with the girls on Taylor Street. The defendant said he only told the girls not to play in the street and he left when he saw an adult male approaching. Then, the defendant admitted he "had a problem" and that he "guided" a young girl's hand to touch his penis. The defendant said his fly was open and that her hand did touch the clothing over his penis.
